Ancient Traditions

INARA is a leader in organic body care products that contain babassu oil, a rich moisturizing agent indigenous to the southeast region of the Amazon in Brazil. Babassu has a high content of lauric and myristic acids, whose melting points are relatively close to body temperature. While babassu draws heat from the skin to initiate melting when topically applied, the heat transfer actually produces a cooling effect on the skin. Inara purchases babassu from native women's cooperatives in Brazil in order to support women who are trying to make a better life for themselves and their families. The company offers a variety of products. Organic Babassu Sugar Rub is made from certified organic babassu oil and turbinado sugar and infused with rosemary leaf extract and a blend of essential oils.
